Dear Members,

The Triathlon was a Huge success. Thanks to all of our Lake Tanglewood residents that volunteered and participated in the event. I worked the bottom of the large hill that the bicycles trek up. One participant just "blew" up the hill. Another reached the bottom and exclaimed "Holy Cow"…. The event was a great deal of fun…..just shows the community spirit that we have at Lake Tanglewood. The proceeds go to the Children's Miracle Network….to benefit the Panhandle's sick and needy children.

The Board received a letter from one our members about the dangers and consequences of "hand feeding" our deer population. These animals are not pets and should not be treated as such…….
"This scenario should never occur...
A deer should not feel comfortable entering a confined yard with a large dog.
After multiple times of this happening, it is now time to bring this issue to the attention of our neighbors.

We can all agree that seeing wildlife is awesome. Guests come into our neighborhood and are excited to see all of the deer. That is until upon closer observation they see small deer, in poor condition, that loiter around the neighborhood.

The reason I write this is because hand-feeding the deer and treating them as though they are neighborhood pets, has had an effect on their behavior. Deer are prey animals and should not feel comfortable entering situations that put them in close proximity to predators or foreign environments. Let me remind you that we, as humans should be considered a predator to the deer and our homes should not be associated with food. By feeding them by hand or from your home, you are removing their natural instincts to fear; which then affects their ability to survive. While they thrive in our neighborhood, they would not survive elsewhere. Because of their cushioned and unrealistic life at the Lake they are putting themselves, our pets, children, etc. in danger.

Back to the opening scenario... We have a fenced yard with a large dog. I watched the deer knowingly approach the dog, enter our porch, where then the dog pinned the deer along the fence. It was the deer's lucky day that I was home and able to call the dog off the deer.

What I'm trying to say is that this situation should be a freak scenario, not a monthly occurrence. Please think about why you are feeding the deer and the adverse effects it has on them and our neighborhood. Your actions could be removing the WILD from the LIFE."

Sincerely,
Rickey Sharp, President

NEW ON OUR SHELVES

FICTION

The Kingmaker's Daughter by Philippa Gregory is a fictional yet historically correct and gripping tale of Anne Neville, daughter of the Earl of Warwick, a most powerful magnate during the 15th century War of the Roses.

Latest in the 44 Scotland Street series by Alexander McCall Smith – The Importance of Being Seven – wherein Bertie mislays his meddling mother and learns that wish fulfillment can be a dangerous business.

The Miracle Life of Edgar Mint by Brady Udall relates the humorous and poignant story of a half-Apache and mostly-orphaned man after the mailman's jeep accidentally ran over his head when he was a boy.

The Absent One by Jussi Adler-Olsen is the second Department Q novel with Detective Carl Merck solving one of Copenhagen's coldest mysteries.
Judgment Call by J. A. Jance with Jenny, Joanna Brady's daughter, discovering the body of the high school principal who has been murdered.
Debbie Macomber's The Inn at Rose Harbor delights us with another heartwarming series based in the Pacific Northwest where the characters find love, forgiveness, and renewal.
Winter's Bone by Daniel Woodrell brings us the tale of Ree Dolly and her search to find her father before they lose their house that he has used as collateral to post bail for himself. Made into a movie, it won Best Picture and Best Screenplay at the Sundance Film Festival.
The Taliban Cricket Club by Timeri N. Murari has been recommended by one of our most avid and selective readers. It is set in war-torn Kabul. The harrowing yet tender novel reveals that love can overcome, and outwit, the power of tyrants.
Creole Belle by James Lee Burke features Dave Robicheaux facing his most intense mystery and personal battle yet.
Guilty Wives by James Patterson and David Ellis is the story of four best friends on a decadent vacation--thrown in prison for murder.

AUDIO BOOKS

The Last Patriot by Brad Thor has Scot Harvath thrust back into the life he has tried so desperately to leave behind to save the intended victim of a car bomb attack.
Also by Brad Thor, Full Black is another Scot Harvath thriller where he launches an audacious plan to infiltrate a terrorist network and prevent one of the biggest threats the U. S. has ever faced.
In Her Shoes by Jennifer Weiner is now a motion picture starring Cameron Diaz. It is the entertaining story of two sisters who claim to have nothing but DNA, a childhood tragedy, and a shared shoe size in common.
Bones are Forever by Kathy Reichs features Temperance Brennan investigating the decomposing bodies of three infants and searching for the woman who may be responsible. Reichs' books are the inspiration for the Fox TV Series "Bones."
The No. 1 Ladies' Detective Agency is the first book in the series by Alexander McCall Smith. We meet Mma "Precious" Ramotswe, the only female detective in Botswana, and learn of her first cases and how she solves them. It is a rare novel that imparts sage wisdom while inspiring hearty laughter and lasting smiles.
The Sweetness at the Bottom of the Pie by Alan Bradley introduces eleven-year-old Flavia who finds a man lying in the cucumber patch and watches him as he takes his dying breath. An enthralling mystery ensues with Flavia as our heroine.
Portrait of a Spy by Daniel Silva features Gabriel Allon who is drawn into a confrontation with the new face of global terror. The climax will leave readers haunted long after the end.
Innocent by Scott Turow is the sequel to Presumed Innocent. Twenty years after the trial, Sabich and Molto are pitted against each other again when Molto accuses Sabich of murdering Sabich's wife.

Home Heater Safety

Many Texans try to stay warm by using portable heating equipment in their homes.

Unfortunately, many discover that using heaters carelessly can cause serious damage, injuries and even death.

The State Fire Marshal's Office encourages all Texans to learn how to prevent heating fires during the winter. By developing safe habits, you can reduce your risk of needless fire.

Be smart. Don't use your heating equipment carelessly. The State Fire Marshal's Office recommends these guidelines for preventing heater fires:

Keep all heaters at least THREE FEET away from combustible objects, such as walls, curtains, drapes and furniture, especially beds. Use a yardstick or meter stick to measure the distance.
Be sure your heating equipment is in good operating condition. Watch for worn electrical cords, gas leaks or faulty switches. Keep your heating equipment (including ducting) clean. Don't use the heater if it is damaged.
Have your heating equipment, serviced by a qualified expert at least once a year. Check both central systems and portable equipment. Have your fireplace, woodburning stove and chimney inspected and cleaned at least once a year.
Follow all instructions for your heating equipment EXACTLY. Re-read the instructions before starting your heater.
Be sure all heaters, stoves, fireplaces and chimneys are properly installed and insulated. Touch nearby floors and walls. If they are warm or hot, the stove or chimney could be too close and start a fire.
Use only approved heaters and fuels. Check for UL or Factory Mutual labels. Because portable heaters are illegal in some areas, check with your local fire authorities to be sure that portable heaters are allowed in your area.
Wear close-fitting pajamas or night clothes. Avoid loose, billowy gowns or robes. This will reduce the risk of igniting your clothes by contacting heaters or cook stoves. Warn senior citizens and children to stay away from heaters.
Be sure there is adequate ventilation in any area where there is an open flame. The flame in your heater needs fresh air. Keep the central gas heating system ventilation ducts open. Provide ventilation for wood- or gas-fueled heaters by opening a window.

The Q&A Series: The "Buzz" on Smoke Alarms

Question: How many types of smoke alarms are there?

Answer: There are two basic types of alarm: the "ionization" alarm and the "photoelectric" alarm. Many manufacturers are starting to distribute "dual-sensored" alarms that combine the two.

Question: Why are there two types?

Answer: Smoke particles can be detected in two different ways. Each alarm is specific to one of these methods.

Question: How does each type of alarm work?

Answer: Ionization Alarms scan for certain particles in normal air. When smoke enters the alarm, normal particles are not detected and the alarm goes off.

Photoelectric Alarms use light to detect the presence of smoke. A beam of light is shined on a sensor. When this beam is blocked by smoke, the alarm is triggered.

Question: How many smoke alarms should we have in our homes?

Answer: Most codes require at least one smoke alarm per floor, and it should be placed in the hallway adjacent to the bedrooms. However it is recommended that there be an alarm in each room except the kitchen or bathroom.

Question: How often should be test our smoke alarms?

Answer: Test your alarms once a month.
